POLL: TWO THIRDS OF VOTERS OPPOSE SUBSIDIES FOR PROFITABLE NUCLEAR COMPANIES

Alexandria, VA—A new poll by John McLaughlin & Associates, President Trump’s pollster, found that two-thirds of voters oppose subsidies for profitable companies such as Constellation Energy

Some of the poll’s findings include:

-Approximately 2-in-3 voters do not think nuclear power companies should receive excessive taxpayer funded subsidies more than other energy companies: 64% - 16%.

-Three-in-five voters, 62%, oppose taxpayer funded subsidies for profitable nuclear power plants. Only 24% support subsidies.

-By the same margin, 3-in-5 voters are less likely to vote for a member of Congress who votes to give taxpayer funded subsidies to a company with a profit of $5 billion.

-Nearly half of all voters think DOGE should target nuclear subsidies in order to cut government waste: 48% - 18%.

The poll was conducted among 1,000 general election voters.

“The American people recognize waste when they see it, and they have given President Trump a mandate to cut it,” said Craig Shirley, Chairman of Citizens for the Republic. “Constellation Energy is reaping billions of dollars. They do not deserve taxpayer subsidies. It is time the spigot be turned off.”

Citizens for the Republic (CFTR) is a national organization dedicated to revitalizing the conservative movement. Through education, grassroots organization, advocacy, and political activism, CFTR promotes the principles of limited government, maximum freedom, personal responsibility, peace through strength, and defense of the dignity of every individual. These are the ideas that Ronald Reagan championed when he founded the original CFTR in 1977 to make conservatism a vibrant political force.*
